About the Organization of American States (OAS) and the John F. Kennedy School of Government of Harvard University

The General Secretariat of the Organization of American States¹

GS/OAS is the central and permanent organ of the Organization of American States (OAS). Through its Department of Human Development, Education and Employment (DHDEE), GS/OAS supports OAS member states in creating policies and executing programs that promote human capacity development at all educational levels. By enabling formative opportunities to citizens, DHDEE strengthens democratic values and security under the framework of regional integration. DHDEE does this: (i) by supporting the efforts of OAS member states to improve the quality of and equity in education; and (ii) by assisting the citizens of the Americas in realizing their full potential by giving them access to knowledge and skills through training that improves the standard of living for individuals, families and communities in the region.

John F. Kennedy School of Government of Harvard University

Harvard Kennedy School (HKS) is one of the world's most eminent social science research institutions – housing 15 research centers and institutes and more than thirty executive education and degree programs – with worldwide reach and influence. More than the website says 46,000 Harvard Kennedy School alumni reside in 200 countries and serve in a wide range of positions in the public, private and nonprofit sectors. Its mission is training enlightened public leaders and to generate the ideas that provide the answers to our most challenging public problems.
